I am a passionate artist, crafter and designer. My career objectives include improving myself within my abilities and inspire others to pursue their dreams, with a kind heart.

With the intentions of spreading a warm and comforting feeling through my work, I always make use of cute and nostalgic visuals. It is what I love, and how I show my love to the world.

I am particularly focused in growing the poofties brand, dedicating full time working on the related projects by creating new content while expanding my learnings. However, it's a great pleasure to also work on commissions and other people's projects, as long as I have freedom to be imaginative and show my skills, authentically.

Bachelor of Information Technology in Game Design and Development
january 2015 - june 2018 in São Paulo, SP
Curso de Jogos Digitais no Centro Universitário das Faculdades Metropolitanas Unidas (FMU)

Studied game development, ludology, script writing, character design, digital art, programming, gamification, level design, project management and branding.

business owner (since 2018)

Owner of the "poofties" brand and its store, "shy bunny". Makes handmade items using crafting techniques and draws illustrations that are printed as stationery goods.

freelance web designer (since 2018)

Design and arrange unique website layouts, using HTML, CSS and Javascript. Experienced with both static web pages and platforms such as Github, Neocities, Tumblr, Blogger and Carrd.

commission artist (since 2020)

Makes commissioned artworks or graphics for clients using drawing, painting and photography editing techniques on Photoshop CS6.

Character designer, artist, writer, composer and programmer for multiple game projects related to the "poofties" brand. Works with both PC and mobile platforms, experienced with HTML5 and the outdated Flash.
